

Infor Motion

Gain the mobile advantage

Successful organizations have an increasingly mobile workforce today. In fact, mobility has become a new IT best practice in an era when many workers say their mobile device is the most important technology in their lives. Infor™ Motion makes the best practice a fast reality for your organization. A sophisticated platform for provisioning, managing, and building mobile applications, Infor Motion makes it easy for you to keep your company on the move. It extends the power of your Infor solutions to mobile devices in a device-driven design that offers top performance, strong security, and easy, centralized application management.

Make the transition

Mobile technology has a profound effect on business today, dramatically increasing productivity by giving you the information you need to do your job anywhere. Best of all, you can deploy mobile technology in a few simple steps with Infor Motion, a lean, cloud-based platform that brings industry-specific power to the devices you prefer—smoothly and seamlessly. Take advantage of our extensive experience in helping companies like yours realize all the advantages of mobile technology.

Build a more responsive organization

Be productive anywhere, anytime, with Infor Motion, which puts the power of Infor applications on your tablet or smart phone. Built on our innovative Infor ION technology framework—a powerful combination of elements that seamlessly connect Infor and non-Infor business systems while adding contextual intelligence, mobile access, and the convenience of the cloud—Infor Motion delivers applications that are natively built for each mobile device your organization uses.

You get:

- Industry-specialized, pre-packaged Infor applications on any device. Rest assured that Infor Motion applications are available on all widely adopted device types and mobile operating systems. You won't need a new technology framework for different screen devices or screen types. What's more, you'll get built-in application awareness, as Infor Motion solutions are equipped to pull functionality from LinkedIn®, Skype™, FaceTime®, and other consumer-oriented applications into an enterprise application context for an enhanced business-user experience.

- Out-of-the-box integration and administration platform. With our ION integration platform, you can ensure your enterprise software is mobile, deliver a complete infrastructure for its deployment and management, and foster a community of application developers who can quickly address every challenge and business opportunity you face. In addition, you can manage all Infor mobile applications from a single, central location.
- Cloud-based technology and security. Operate without a hitch and reduce your IT footprint with Infor Motion, which uses one of the most secure cloud hosts in the business—the infrastructure of Amazon.com®. Sometimes the most difficult part of application development is accessing data, but our cloud-based platform serves the data to you via ION. You can easily integrate contemporary third-party technologies such as voice and location services. You can also choose any servers—anywhere in the world—to house your data, because you have localized cloud access.

See results as they happen

With Infor Motion, your transition to mobile applications is a faster, easier process than you ever dreamed possible—even on a global scale. You can deploy mobile applications quickly, manage them easily, and develop them on the fly, meeting your unique business challenges.

In addition, you can see immediate results from our first industry-specific, role-specific offering on the Infor Motion platform: Infor Road Warrior, a mobile solution that extends a salesperson's work with sales orders, customer requests, shipments, and more to any screen.
